Phase three, which will include telephony features, will be available later in the summer.. Even PC users have problems I see my co-worker is online and I send a message, oh wait they are offline and the message didn't get through, thanks Skype! Or I'll send a message then send another message within a few seconds there is this awful loading icon that lasts like 10 seconds before my message goes through.. Skype for Business, at least on Windows, is a complete disaster You don't seem to understand that SfB is an on-premise solution like Exchange.. That IM you send is not peer to peer, it traverses the network to your datacenter, then to the other user.. Full screen video, content viewing, in-meeting chat, and the ability to invite additional people to the meeting are all supported features.. For many organizations, they will not use anything cloud based and want complete control over their clients from end to end. 34bbb28f04 Talitha Bateman Wears Ieena For Mac
